MEMORANDUM FOR: Director, FBIS

THROUGH : Chief, Operations Group

SUBJECT : Monthly Report -- Paraguay Bureau --
December 1985

I. GENERAL

Following a briefing by the chief on Paraguay Bureau concerns related to our local employees, Ambassador Taylor made it a priority project for the JAO to investigate alternatives to the current IPS (Instituto de Prevision Social) retirement and health care system. This is a program that all locals hired by the Mission since October 1981 have had to join in lieu of the Civil Service Retirement program. The final outcome of this investigation may result in some sort of third-party arrangement; for example, a provident fund similar to those used at other U.S. overseas missions. The bureau considers this to be a very positive development as IPS leaves much to be desired and has caused problems in hiring and great concern among new bureau employees.

At the end of November, the Embassy announced the results of a salary review. This survey was required by the recent 9-percent emergency salary increase granted to Embassy personnel because of the drastic increase in the Paraguayan cost of living. The result of the review was an additional 0.9-percent increase plus an additional fixed amount of 34,000 guaranies per year. The bureau has forwarded the composite personnel action to Headquarters for Director/FBIS signature.

Ambassador Taylor and his wife visited the bureau on 24 December to wish all FBIS employees a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

II. OPERATIONS

A. Monitorial/Editorial

1. On Sunday the 1st of December the bureau staffed a morning shift to cover a speech Argentine President Raul Alfonsin made to the closing session of the ruling Radical Civic Union (UCR) National Committee meeting in Buenos Aires. On the 9th, the state of siege that the government imposed on 25 October was lifted, and that same day nine former Armed Forces commanders, among them two former presidents, convicted of committing crimes while repressing subversion under the military regimes received sentences ranging from 4 and 1/2 years to life. The proceedings were broadcast live by Buenos Aires Television and the bureau sent a VSL and the videotape to headquarters.

2. The most important event in Chile this month was the complete rejection by President Pinochet and his government of the opposition coalition's National Accord for the Transition to Full Democracy. The government rejected the Accord only hours after opposition members delivered a copy of it to the Interior Ministry under secretary, instead of to the minister as was scheduled. Pinochet's complete rejection of the Accord prompted statements of dismay and anger from all points of the political spectrum. As the month closed, opposition figures were calling for a major nationwide work stoppage and a campaign of civil disobedience.

3. Interest in Paraguay was high this month because of a scandal linking high-level government officials and military men to the illegal acquisition of foreign currency at preferential rates. On the 16th, two criminal court judges said there was sufficient evidence to charge Central Bank President Cesar Romeo Acosta, a member of the Council of State, with involvement in currency fraud. The investigations into the case have slowed, however, because, according to the press, Acosta enjoys immunity and the judicial branch has gone into its regular summer recess. Taking a harder line than usual against journalists who do not reflect the government's sentiments, police on the 2d detained Radio Nanduti Director Humberto Rubin and questioned him for 3 days. Col Don Stevens, U.S. Defense Attache, on the 20th visited the bureau to view a video of President Stroessner meeting with other defense attaches.

4. Peruvian President Alan Garcia on the 27th ordered the state oil company to take control of the facilities of Belco Petroleum, a U.S. company, because no agreement had been reached in the renegotiation of operation contracts which the government revoked on 26 August. Agreement was reached, however, with the U.S. company Occidental Petroleum and with Oxy-Bridas, a U.S.-Argentine consortium. In a press conference with Peruvian journalists following the takeover of Belco, Garcia warned that there would be more investigations of foreign companies, including one into the Southern Peru Copper Corporation, another U.S. company and the largest mining company in the country.

5. As part of its political opening following 12 years of military rule, Uruguay on the 14th announced that diplomatic relations would be resumed with the PRC in 1986. Formal relations were reestablished with Cuba on the 19th after a 21-year hiatus.

B. Lateral Services

The press officer at the American Embassy in La Paz called the bureau on the 3d to request, in the name of the Ambassador, that we file Bolivian narcotics items directly to the State Department. He was told that Liaison and Requirements Branch would first have to coordinate his request with State. He stated that the La Paz Embassy "highly appreciates" the bureau's file.

C. Cruising

The cruiser gathered information on television programming in the bureau's coverage area in response to a request from Panama Bureau. He also made observations on Brasilia Radio Nacional da Amazonia, Buenos Aires Domestic Service, and Bolivian and Peruvian stations.

D. Technical

1. The technicians made considerable progress in preparation for the installation in late January - early February of the bureau's ROSET. New trenches were dug in Main Radio and in the Monitorial Room. The trench in Main Radio will accommodate the video, audio, and power cabling for the new Roset equipment racks, and the trench in the Monitorial Room will house the cabling for the future television-monitoring booth. The plans for the new TV booth drawn by a local contractor were approved. The booth will include two viewing positions and accommodate six television sets and the necessary equipment. One of the two positions will be equipped with a radio, giving the bureau added flexibility.

2. The bureau received from Tel Aviv Bureau four Collins receivers and four remote head controls. They were bench-tested and temporarily connected to the remote system to ensure they were in good operating condition. This equipment is part of the remote system expansion, increasing from 6 to 12 the monitorial positions that can independently tune the receivers at the remote ANTELCO site. This project should be completed by the end of February.

III. ADMINISTRATION

V. COMMUNITY AFFAIRS

STAT Flooded out by a torrential rain storm on the 15th, bureau
STAT employees regrouped on the 22d for an office Christmas party hosted STAT by the bureau chief at the home of Senior Editor [] and [] Undaunted by the 100 plus degree heat, [] and her band of volunteers served up turkey dinner with all the trimmings as well as many Paraguayan specialities delivered by bureau wives. The multitude of children (around 30) enjoyed the cool of the swimming pool and ate hot dogs roasted -- and sometimes burned -- by the men of the bureau. This was all done to the melodies provided by a Paraguayan organist who played throughout the afternoon.
